SEOUL (AP) — The newspaper Chosun Ilbo said the United States agreed today to apologize to North Korea and the North Koreans agreed to return the 83 crewmen of the seized intelligence ship Pueblo. This was denied in Washington. "We have no confirmation on that," William P. Bundy, Assistant Secretary of State said. "As of this moment we cannot report any progress."

Bundy added that meetings between the United States and the North Koreans are continuing. Quoting an unidentified South Korean government source, Chosun Ilbo said the agreement was reached at the third secret meeting of U.S. and North Korean representatives held at Panmunjom, where the Military Armistice Commission meets in the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea. The report said the United States agreed to a Communist demand that it sign a note of apology admitting that the Pueblo violated North Korean waters. U.S. officials in Seoul said they could neither confirm nor deny the report. Earlier South Korean sources had reported the meeting at Panmunjom today and said the North Koreans offered to release the body of one dead American and "several" injured if the United States would admit the Pueblo was trespassing. A Seoul radio station said three helicopters were waiting at the conference building at Panmunjom in expectation of the release. A source at the 121st U.S. Army Evacuation Hospital 15 miles west of Seoul said one wing had been on the alert since Sunday to receive the Pueblo's casualties. The sources said the negotiations at Panmunjom are being carried on by Rear Adm. John V. Smith for the United States and Maj. Gen. Pak Chung Kook for North Korea. They were reported meeting with only interpreters present, as they did first on Friday and again Sunday. U.S. Embassy and military spokesmen in Seoul refused to comment on the reports of the meeting today. Reports of the North Korean offer to return the casualties circulated after the meeting Sunday, but U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he had no word of any such offer. Some Seoul officials expressed suspicion that the United States was getting ready to issue an apology to North Korea over the incident in order to get the Pueblo crewmen back. A spokesman for President Chung Hee Park's ruling Democratic Republic party said party leaders agreed the secret American-North Korean talks at Panmunjom would "only encourage further Communist provocations" in Korea. North Korea's official press agency claimed a fourth officer of the Pueblo—its navigator—had admitted that the intelligence gathering vessel had violated territorial waters of the Communist nation. The agency quoted Lt. Edward Renz Murphy Jr., 31, of Berkeley, Calif., as saying the ship had entered North Korean waters more than five times before it was captured Jan. 23. The statement attributed to Murphy, like the other three before it, included an apology, a promise not to engage in future "hostile acts" against North Korea and a plea for leniency.

Reagan Presents $6 Billion Budget

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan gave the Democratic-controlled California legislature a $5.7 billion budget today that calls for no new taxes and proposes cutbacks in the rate of spending for welfare and medical aid to the poor. His record spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1 also contains $216 million for property tax reductions for the elderly, the businessman and the homeowners. He conceded the budget — which totals $5,699,536,034 — is up 7.1 per cent from estimated spending this year. But he said this largest proposed spending bill in the history of any state is a tight budget, one that would provide for the needs of a population that will hit more than 20 million in the next year. Although his economies are less rigid than last year, they are still expected to draw the opposition of Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh and other legislative Democrats. They charge Reagan is trying to use his tightfisted fiscal policies as ammunition for a possible run at the presidency in this election year. The assembly is 42-38 Democratic, and the senate is split 20-20. It takes a two-thirds vote in each house for budget passage.

North Vietnam Spurns Peace, Rusk Feels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says North Vietnam helped mount the major Communist offensive in South Vietnam knowing U.S. air attacks were being curtailed during exploratory peace moves. The United States therefore must conclude, Rusk said, that the North Vietnamese "are not seriously interested at the present time in talking about peaceful settlements."

His statement that the United States "exercised some restraint" in its bombing of the North came during a joint radio-television appearance with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who left open the possibility of new American troop deployments to the war zone. In Washington, a leading Republican foreign affairs spokesman, Sen. Thurston B. Historic Logan Elm Stump Burned by Vandals

By JOHN PURCELL Herald Staff Writer

A somber air shrouded the small Logan Elm State Park northwest of Kingston this past otherwise pleasant Sunday afternoon. A few visitors made their way along the muddy paths to view the gaunt smoldering remains of the once mighty Logan Elm. Vandals had set fire Saturday night to the 10-foot high stump, all that remained of the tree under which Mingo Chief Logan had delivered his plea for peace — a plea considered by Thomas Jefferson to be the most eloquent in recorded history. The Kingston Volunteer Fire Department responded to the fire about 6 p. m. Saturday. BUT the trucks never reached the burning trunk. "The paths were too muddy, we'd have lost the trucks," said a member of the fire department. A message interpreted to mean that the tree's remains should be allowed to continue to burn was relayed to the fire department by the sheriff's office at 6:45 p. m. from Mac Noggle, treasurer of the Pickaway County Historical Society. "Maybe it's a good thing," stated Noggle, "it has been the most disgraceful looking thing for years." The Ohio State Historical Society, owner of the park, was never officially advised of the situation. When Daniel Porter, director of the state society, was advised at his home late Sunday by The Herald that the tree was still burning, he responded with some shock and dismay. Walter Coplinger, Chillicothe representative of the society, was ordered by the director about 7 p. m. Sunday to personally respond to the fire. MR. Coplinger reached the still burning stump late Sunday evening, about 27 hours after first reports of the fire, and used portable fire extinguishers and buckets filled with water from a pump approximately 20 feet away to put out most of the fire. When questioned on the future of the park Mr. Porter stated that the historical society's board of directors would be requested at their April 19, meeting to approve a fitting memorial. "Remains of the tree will be cleared away this spring," said Mr. Porter. At the speed with which it was rotting we would have been forced to remove it in another few years, he continued. A stone memorial to the impassioned plea of Mingo Chief Logan should be built on the site of the elm tree later this year, hopefully, he stated. The sheriff's office reports that they are still investigating the fire.

Congressmen Hear Pleas For Taxes on Travelers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's administration proposed today to tax the spending of American tourists outside the Western Hemisphere above a $7-a-day level. Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler made the proposal to the House Ways and Means Committee as a key element of Johnson's effort to reduce by $500 million the net outflow of dollars resulting from tourist travel. The administration also proposed extending the 5 per cent excise tax now charged on air tickets within the United States to foreign air traffic and to water transportation outside the Western Hemisphere. The custom-free bringing back of purchases made abroad would also be sharply restricted. The expenditure tax would be levied on this scale: on expenditures of more than $7 per day, 15 per cent on the first $8 of the excess and 30 per cent on the remainder. The tax would apply from enactment of the legislation until Oct. 1, 1969, thus covering the 1968 and 1969 travel seasons. Fowler told the committee this particular method was adopted so that the tax would "not fall heavily on those with modest incomes or those of any income level who choose to travel modestly in this period."

Kennedy Patriarch Suffers Relapse

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy, 80-year-old father of the late President John F. Kennedy, was resting comfortably today after a minor relapse Sunday night, family sources said. Kennedy, former U.S. ambassador to Britain, suffered a "slight spasm of a blood vessel in the brain," his physician, Dr. Saul Rotter said. Rotter said Kennedy's condition was "about the same" as it had been before the difficulty.

SAIGON, (AP) — U.S. Marines beat off 200 to 300 North Vietnamese troops attacking a hill overlooking the northwest fortress at Khe Sanh today. The Viet Cong opened a fresh heavy attack in Saigon while fighting continued in Hue and other targets of the Communist offensive against South Vietnamese cities. Police reported about 400 Viet Cong overran a police substation in Saigon after nightfall and launched a heavy assault on a main police precinct in the city. The attacks came after allied officials reported the Communists would open a second big attack on the capital. It was too early to know whether the 3½-hour ground assault on Hill 861A, accompanied by a heavy artillery attack on other positions at Khe Sanh, was the start of the expected North Vietnamese offensive along the northern frontier. But the U.S. Command disclosed it had moved 3,500 paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division to the northern sector "to be prepared for any contingency."

Six North Vietnamese bodies were found inside the company's perimeter and about 150 more were just outside. The Marines also reported capturing two prisoners and 64 weapons. The company defending the hill reported seven Marines killed and 24 wounded. The U.S. Command said the Communists have lost 16,976 men killed since launching the cities campaign last Tuesday. It said 1,477 allied soldiers have been killed, 471 of them Americans. In Hue, South Vietnamese planes bombed the walls of the ancient citadel Sunday in an unsuccessful attempt to open a breach for assaulting infantrymen. A low mist kept the planes away this morning but U.S. 7th Fleet cruisers off shore joined the battle for the first time, firing at enemy positions with their eight-inch guns. Without confirming or denying the reports, a spokesman for the U.S. Mission said today that the reports were being investigated.

It was understood, however, that because of the reports, a new security screening was made of all Vietnamese employees of the embassy.

Both drivers were killed in the fighting after a suicide squad of about 20 Viet Cong invaded the embassy grounds.

Solons Hear Drainage Problem

Two area farmers met with Pickaway County Commissioners today to discuss a drainage problem created by clogged sewers underneath the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

The farmers were Paul Kuhlwein and Guy Leatherwood. Ditch supervisor Hewitt Cromley told commissioners similar situations existed at other spots along the railroad.

Cromley said the tiles under the railroad were not kept free of debris and were allowed to clog.

Leatherwood and Kuhlwein told commissioners a permanent solution to the drainage problem was needed. County solons Wayne Hines, Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin were to confer with prosecuting attorney Robert Huffer about the situation.

Mrs. Ruth George served as acting clerk of the commissioners today. She has been maintaining the commissioners' office for Geneva Brink, who was granted a vacation by the solons.

Stock Market Goes Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market settled lower early this afternoon. Trading slowed from Friday's pace.

In initial dealings, gains outnumbered losses as Wall Street showed relief that the weekend had passed without any drastic new developments in the dangerous Asian situation.

As trading continued, however, the advantage for the plus side faded and losses outscored gains by nearly 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

From loss of less than a point in the first half hour, the Dow Jones industrial average at noon showed a decline of 3.59 at 859.97.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.1 at 313.8 with industrials off 1.7, rails off .5 and utilities off .4. Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange, with trading at about the same pace as Friday.

But Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he was inclined to agree with the view that the Viet Cong attacks were the guerrilla group's "death rattle," adding: "They wouldn't do it unless they were desperate."

Rusk said the bombing limitation occurred in recent days as the United States sought clarification of North Vietnam's statement it would talk peace if all bombing were permanently halted.

President Johnson previously had offered—in what has become known as his San Antonio formula—to stop the bombing if this would lead promptly to productive discussions and provided the Communists wouldn't take military advantage of the cessation.

"They (Hanoi) know these explorations are going on," Rusk said, "because they were party to them."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren Minister Should Heed His Preachings

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you for advice, but I need help and I can't go to my friends. Besides I need help, not pity.

My husband is a minister, about middle-age and average looking. About a year ago he met an attractive young woman while calling on the sick in a hospital. They developed quite a friendship because after she went home he continued to visit her at home. (She is not even a member of his church.) I told him that I didn't like the looks of it, which only made matters worse. He became very angry with me and insisted he was doing nothing wrong, but I notice he visits her only when her husband is at work.

People are beginning to talk, Abby, and I am worried. What should I do?

NOWHERE TO TURN
DEAR NOWHERE: Pastors have been relieved of their duties for this kind of thing, which your husband surely knows. Even if he is doing nothing "wrong," remind him to "abstain from all appearance of evil." (New Testament, 1 Thessalonians, v 22) in case he wishes to practice what he preaches.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love with a married man. We've been seeing each other for over a year now. He told me that he and his wife weren't actually living as man and wife, altho they shared the same house for appearances sake. Also, because they have five children, he didn't want to break up the marriage just yet. But Abby, he promised that in due time he would divorce his wife and marry me.

I have been 100 per cent true to this man, Abby, since the day I realized I loved him. He said he loved me, too, but now he gives me the news that his wife is expecting! I don't know what to think. I need your opinion.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: I think you should thank your lucky stars for two things. One, that you discovered early in the game that the "love bug" that bit you was a louse. Two, that if he had to get one of you pregnant, it was his wife.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am a very poor hostess—at least I think I am. It's not that I can't relax around people because when I'm a guest, I'm perfectly relaxed and have a wonderful time, but when guests are in my home, I am nervous and tense and I am just not "myself."

I am not the fussy kind of hostess who runs around emptying ash trays all the time, but if there's a lull in the conversation I feel embarrassed, and worry that I'm not giving my guests a good time.

When I invite people over, they say, "Why don't YOU come HERE instead?"—which leads me to believe that they have noticed my nervousness, too, and would rather spare me the agony. What's wrong with me? And is there a solution?

POOR HOSTESS
DEAR HOSTESS: Guests can't relax unless the hostess is relaxed. The secret to being a good hostess is in getting compatible people together in a comfortable atmosphere. No host or hostess can give his guests a good time. The guests must make it themselves.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LIKES TO GOSSIP": TO paraphrase a little gem of philosophy I learned years ago: "He who steals my gold steals trash. But he who gossips about me steals my good name enriches himself not, but makes me poor indeed."

Yesiree ... this is an "old-fashioned" winter!

What weathermen term a huge polar air mass invaded Ohio recently turning the state into a virtual deep freeze. Temperatures throughout the area served by your gas company were far below normal.

Because of this severe cold, your furnace has probably been working longer and harder to keep your home warm and comfortable . . . and your gas bill could be higher than usual.

But the cost of heating your home with natural gas is still far less than with any other modern fuel.

Ohioans today enjoy unmatched heating efficiency, comfort, convenience and economy with natural gas — no matter how cold the weather.

Yesiree...this is an "old-fashioned" winter!

What weathermen term a huge polar air mass invaded Ohio recently turning the state into a virtual deep freeze. Temperatures throughout the area served by your gas company were far below normal.

Because of this severe cold, your furnace has probably been working longer and harder to keep your home warm and comfortable . . . and your gas bill could be higher than usual.

But the cost of heating your home with natural gas is still far less than with any other modern fuel.

Ohioans today enjoy unmatched heating efficiency, comfort, convenience and economy with natural gas — no matter how cold the weather.

Action on Dumps

Pickaway County Board of Health has taken a step in the right direction by having Prosecuting Attorney Robert Huffer seek an injunction to close area dumps.

The action is long past due. The dump operated in the Scioto River flood plain is not only an eyesore to persons crossing the old Red River Bridge, but has created a hazard and nuisance which will not easily be eliminated.

The dump was not operated as sanitary landfill. Everytime the Scioto River overflowed its banks, tons of rubbish, debris and bottles from the dump were carried downstream and deposited on farm fields many miles away.

Recent stream pollution standards established by the State legislature will help stop such situations in the future. Township zoning regulations in Pickaway County now greatly limit dump locations.

County Commissioners and health board members have planned a meeting to seek a solution to the problem. The answer may well be one dump, rigidly controlled and regulated by the authorities.

A properly operated sanitary landfill dump is an asset that Pickaway County cannot afford to be without.

Effects of Noise

For years, psychologists and other scientists have directed considerable attention to the baleful effect of noise upon the human mind and nervous system.

Research throws additional light on the problem. The new approach is to investigate the effect of noise on the endocrine defense system, which has much to do with resistance to disease.

This should stimulate more exhaustive research as to the effect of a wide variety of noises on human beings. It may be found that illness and mortality rates can be substantially reduced by cutting down on decibels.

A corollary might be that noise in the form of discordant jazz or analogous "music" has much to do with human ailments. Psychologists have already learned that nerve-scraping cacophony employed by jazz bands and by vocalists who screech discords have a definitely bad effect.

Negro Athletes

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Lew Alcindor, the seven-foot-one-inch Negro college basketball genius, attended the California meeting which proposed a boycott of the Mexican Olympic games by black U. S. athletes, and, simply because of his fame, he has been shoved forward as a leader of the boycott cause. He now says that, though he is interested in what the boycott is designed to do, he shouldn't be singled out as the Field Marshal of an intransigent army.

Alcindor's quite evident qualms about the utility of a whole proposal is about to collapse. If this is indeed the case, it is all to the good. For a boycott would hurt athletics, which is one area of American life that has been supremely good to the Negro. It would, moreover, hurt the 1968 Olympic host state of Mexico, which happens to be a nation that has been through a long revolution designed to give all its racial components, whether Indian, mestizo or white European, an equal chance in life.

Whatever the gripes of the Negro about his place in a boycott may indicate that the white-dominated U.S. society in general, he has no call to take out his frustrations on the world of athletics. For more than twenty years I have served as a judge of the "best sports stories of the year" for sports editor Irving Marsh, formerly of the lamented New York Herald Tribune. It's been a pleasure to watch the development of the American sports writer over the span of two decades in his guise of keeper of our collective social conscience. Back in 1947 Jackie Robinson was just breaking into major league baseball, and Kenny Washington was the only Negro player in the National Football League. Basketball was becoming a game for giants, but they had to be white giants. But things were ripe for a change, and the sports writer dug in to help give the Negro his break.

The result is very much apparent in this year's selection of prize stories for Mr. Marsh's anthology. One of the best pieces looks at Lew Alcindor as the beneficiary of the sports revolution which Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers started when he brought Jackie Robinson up from Montreal in the not-so-color-conscious International League. Baseball set the pace for all athletics, with basketball not far behind. The first Negro to play in the National Basketball Association was Chuck Cooper, who joined the Boston Celtics in 1950. Today some fifty per cent of the players in professional basketball are Negroes. Boston's Bill Russell is the finest defensive man in basketball history.

Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, who once scored one hundred points in a single contest, is basketball's best known star. If and when Lew Alcindor quits the college scene to become a big money earner as a basketball pro, he will find the world more than anxious to accept him.

Another good story to make the Irving Marsh anthology for 1968 focusses on the role which Grambling College, an all-Negro institution in Louisiana, has played in stocking the professional football leagues. It was in 1947 that Kenny Washington, the sole representative of his race in pro football, heard about a young fullback named Paul Younger who had scored twenty-five touchdowns in a single season for Grambling. Younger, known as "Tank," got his chance as a money-making star with Kenny Washington's Los Angeles Rams. Other Grambling players soon followed in his footsteps — Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers, Ernie Ladd of Houston, Mike Howell of the Oakland Raiders. By 1966 253 of the 960 players in the National Football League and the American Football League were Negroes.

The story has ebbed and flowed. The story has been more or less the same in baseball. Twenty years after Jackie Robinson's debut one out of five players in the major leagues was a Negro. The Negro athletes who have called for a boycott of the Olympics are trying to show the world that the U.S. is "no better than South Africa." Well, on the face of the evidence as presented by twenty years of athletic history, the charge is nonsense in at least one respect; whatever our sins may be, we are certainly not "like South Africa" in our treatment of Negro athletes. It follows that the Negro is only hurting himself when he does anything to hurt athletics, which has been father and mother to him in a cold world.

A BIG LEAGUE umpire suffered a series of debilitating headaches, and finally consulted a doctor. After a thorough examination, the doctor said, "What you need, obviously, is a pair of strong glasses."

The umpire jerked his thumb angrily skyward, and announced, "That will cost you exactly fifty bucks, and what's more, you're out of the game!"

Like most great humorists, the late Bob Benchley had his full share of personal quirks and foibles. One was the firm conviction that inanimate objects were in a constant campaign to humiliate him. "I have placed slippers very carefully under my bed," he gave as an example, "only to have them crawl out during the night to a position where I will step into them the wrong way when leaping out of bed to answer the telephone." Benchley was convinced that shoelaces broke, fountain pens leaked, and military brushes flew out of his hands and conked him on the head as part of this same dastardly conspiracy.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can gall bladder disease and gallstones be cured without surgery?

The two parts of this question must be separated. Gall bladder disease may be caused by an inflammation or infection of the gall bladder. The cause may be moderate alcohol intake or indulgence in fried or fatty foods.

A single attack of gall bladder disease can often be treated with diet and drugs and may never reappear. Surgery, therefore, is not necessary unless the attacks are frequent and incapacitating.

Gallstones within the gall bladder are almost always the result of chronic infection, high cholesterol diets, chronic alcoholism and marked obesity.

The gall bladder can be studied with remarkable accuracy. Special pills are swallowed which become concentrated within the gall bladder. This dye is readily seen on the X-ray plate.

The speed with which the gall bladder empties itself of the dye is a good indication to the X-ray specialist of its health and disease. Gall bladder stones can be readily recognized by this same method.

It is surprising how often gallstones are unexpectedly found when patients are X-rayed for other conditions. The stones may have been there for years without causing any of the painful colicky spasms of the upper right side of the abdomen. When gallstones block the ducts through which bile flows from the gall bladder to the intestine surgery almost always is necessary.

Only rarely does a gall bladder stone that has been causing trouble pass into the intestine. Surgery is almost always the safest and the simplest form of treatment.

What danger is there in wearing a truss, rather than having surgery for a hernia?

There are many different kinds of hernia. I assume that the hernia referred to is the one that occurs in the groin in both men and women.

A hernia is a defect in the protective wall through which some organ of the body pushes and interrupts normal function. Most hernias are the result of some abnormality of development. Occasionally, a hernia may develop after injury or surgery of the abdomen.

The most frequent hernia, or rupture, occurs in the groin and may produce little or no symptoms for many years. Sometimes, as a result of overweight, straining at stool or lifting a heavy weight the opening may become larger and through it a small piece of intestine may be forced. Even in these cases, with gentle pressure the intestine can be pushed back through the hernial ring and into its proper position.

A truss does not cure a hernia, but rather does it protect and keep the intestines from becoming caught in the opening. This is probably the single most important reason why hernias are best treated by surgery than by a truss.

Every once in a while, a loop of intestine may become caught in the ring and cannot be replaced. The result is that the intestine becomes strangulated and swollen and makes surgery a necessity and not a choice.

The speed of today's hernia operations and the excellence of the safe anesthetics, in addition to antibiotics, makes surgery simple and uncomplicated. Unnecessary delay because of the fear of surgery frequently makes a simple operation a very complicated one.

NEW YORK (AP) — There are many morals to Dave Fiedler's story. It is evidence, for one thing, that faith in an idea and hard work still can move mighty corporations.

Less than seven years ago Fiedler was a 21-year-old unemployed printing salesman with a wife to support and night school tuition to pay. He had a yearning to be in business for himself.

Today he is vice president of a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) subsidiary, a position he attained after helping to reduce a problem that has bothered every gasoline company since automobiles were invented.

Fiedler did this by demonstrating over a five-year period that road maps needn't be a costly nuisance to oil companies. By selling advertisements on the rim of the map, he showed, the losses on maps could be sharply reduced.

This is no small matter. American Oil, Standard's marketing company, has spent $1 million a year putting out 20 million to 30 million maps. And it is estimated that the total bill for all road maps is about $12 million a year.

Amazingly, Fiedler accomplished his goal from without. Unlike some bright young college graduates who rise quickly through the ranks, Fiedler had only a high school diploma and wasn't even an employee of the company.

The odyssey began with $5,000 borrowed from a bank on security provided by in-laws. With this he formed an outdoor advertising company that was less than successful.

Shortly after, Fiedler had an artist make a mockup of a directory containing information for motorists. He approached the regional office of American Oil and told them he would publish it if they would distribute it.

American was interested. Gradually, as they talked, the idea was refined and it was agreed that a map would be better than a directory. Fiedler was to produce it at no cost to American and derive his profits from ads. Tempo Designs was formed.

"Business was rough at first," he said. "The regional offices of the oil company would agree to let us handle their maps on a year to year basis. But the banks wouldn't lend willingly on that basis." The banks wanted longer contracts.

With limited capital the going was slow. He needed money for each regional office to whom he hoped to sell the idea. "My expenses almost equalled my income." It was difficult to accumulate capital.

Printers wanted their money in advance. But advertisers refused to pay ahead of publication.

Living conditions were nomadic. During this time his wife JoAnne and son David traveled with Fiedler. They ate at restaurants every night and lived in one motel after another.

Daughter Barbara took to the road at age six weeks.

"My only discouragement, though, was that I didn't have money to grow faster." Then he was introduced to a stranger, C.L. Webster, a retired National Cash Register executive. "I chased him for three months. He invested $10,000 and set up $35,000 in credit."

Said Fiedler: "He was my angel. He asked nothing. He was unbelievable. He was interested only in my success and concerned with my future. He was impressed with our ability to arrange things with the oil companies."

Fiedler expanded more rapidly now, moving into additional regions of American Oil. Then he visited Standard's main office in Chicago and told them he wanted to go nationwide but might need financial help.

"They put their financial people on it. They studied the capital needs and then offered to let me raise the money for the project. But I couldn't raise that kind of money. They offered to buy me out and I accepted in 1966."

Under the agreement, Fiedler is vice president and general manager of Tempo Designs, Inc., a Standard subsidiary. He supervises 29 salesmen and 11 office workers under a five-year contract.

Now 28, Fiedler has settled in the Chicago area and is having a home built in Arlington Heights.

NEW YORK (AP)—Zero Mostel may well be the happiest fat man in America. He is 235 pounds of living joy.

The secret of his happiness? "Getting lost," he said. "Being involved in something you can't understand."

"Mystery is the main thing in life. Why should you have to understand everything?"

Regarded by many as one of the most versatile performers in the history of the theater, the pudgy-faced, stringy-haired actor spends more time at his first love—painting—than he does on stage or before the cameras.

Since completing his 11th film, "The Producers," in which he stars as a zany and impecunious Broadway showman, Zero has been contentedly spending his days working alone at his easel in a third-floor walkup studio in Manhattan's wholesale flower district.

"Artists like to work in this area because the stuff florists spray on their flowers keeps down vermin," Mostel said. "This was George Gershwin's first studio when he was a Tin Pan Alley king. I've had it now for years."

Zero, who never does anything quite like anyone else, bore little resemblance to the public's idea of an artist. He wore a brilliant pair of blue corduroy pants and a paint splattered blue work shirt worn from many washings. "I'm dirty," admitted Zero contentedly. "I love these old shirts. I have about 10 of them. They seem to last forever."

Although he once taught art in his youth and is recognized as a genuinely talented painter, Mostel is somewhat unorthodox in his technique.

"I like to fool around with new materials and tools," he said. "I don't stick to brushes. I also use dental picks, spoons and finger scratches to get a particular effect."

Variety has been the spice of Zero's life. He feels that the greatest problem facing creative American artists in any field is the public's insistence that they be typed.

"People tend to want to identify you with one thing, perhaps because that helps them to feel they can understand you," he remarked. "That's all right if you can only do one thing. But I like to do a number of different things."

"I don't like to do just one thing at a time either. Before I start on a film, I prepare about 10 to 12 big canvases so I'll have something to come back to. And while I'm doing the film, or appearing in a play, before I fall asleep at night I make dozens and dozens of preliminary drawings for my paintings."

Mostel won three Tony awards in a row for his appearances in "Rhinoceros," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and "Fiddler on the Roof." But flattery as hit productions are to his ego, he dislikes long runs.

rity provided by in-laws. With this he formed an outdoor advertising company that was less than successful.

Shortly after, Fiedler had an artist make a mockup of a directory containing information for motorists. He approached the regional office of American Oil and told them he would publish it if they would distribute it.

American was interested. Gradually, as they talked, the idea was refined and it was agreed that a map would be better than a directory. Fiedler was to produce it at no cost to American and derive his profits from ads. Tempo Designs was formed.

"Business was rough at first," he said. "The regional offices of the oil company would agree to let us handle their maps on a year to year basis. But the banks wouldn't lend willingly on that basis." The banks wanted longer contracts.

With limited capital the going was slow. He needed money for each regional office to whom he hoped to sell the idea. "My expenses almost equalled my income." It was difficult to accumulate capital.

Printers wanted their money in advance. But advertisers refused to pay ahead of publication.

Living conditions were nomadic. During this time his wife JoAnne and son David traveled with Fiedler. They ate at restaurants every night and lived in one motel after another.

Daughter Barbara took to the road at age six weeks.

"My only discouragement, though, was that I didn't have money to grow faster." Then he was introduced to a stranger, C.L. Webster, a retired National Cash Register executive. "I chased him for three months. He invested $10,000 and set up $35,000 in credit."

Said Fiedler: "He was my angel. He asked nothing. He was unbelievable. He was interested only in my success and concerned with my future. He was impressed with our ability to arrange things with the oil company."

Fiedler expanded more rapidly now, moving into additional regions of American Oil. Then he visited Standard's main office in Chicago and told them he wanted to go nationwide but might need financial help.

"They put their financial people on it. They studied the capital needs and then offered to let me raise the money for the project. But I couldn't raise that kind of money. They offered to buy me out and I accepted in 1966."

Under the agreement, Fiedler is vice president and general manager of Tempo Designs, Inc., a Standard subsidiary. He supervises 29 salesmen and 11 office workers under a five-year contract.

Now 28, Fiedler has settled in the Chicago area and is having a home built in Arlington Heights.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Zero Mostel may well be the happiest fat man in America. He is 235 pounds of living joy.

The secret of his happiness? "Getting lost," he said. "Being involved in something you can't understand."

"Mystery is the main thing in life. Why should you have to understand everything?"

Regarded by many as one of the most versatile performers in the history of the theater, the pudgy-faced, stringy-haired actor spends more time at his first love—painting—than he does on stage or before the cameras.

Since completing his 11th film, "The Producers," in which he stars as a zany and impecunious Broadway showman, Zero has been contentedly spending his days working alone at his easel in a third-floor walkup studio in Manhattan's wholesale flower district.

"Artists like to work in this area because the stuff florists spray on their flowers keeps down vermin," Mostel said. "This was George Gershwin's first studio when he was a Tin Pan Alley king. I've had it now for years."

Zero, who never does anything quite like anyone else, bore little resemblance to the public's idea of an artist. He wore a brilliant pair of blue corduroy pants and a paint splattered blue work shirt worn from many washings. "I'm dirty," admitted Zero contentedly. "I love these old shirts. I have about 10 of them. They seem to last forever."

Although he once taught art in his youth and is recognized as a genuinely talented painter, Mostel is somewhat unorthodox in his technique.

"I like to fool around with new materials and tools," he said. "I don't stick to brushes. I also use dental picks, spoons and finger scratches to get a particular effect."

Variety has been the spice of Zero's life. He feels that the greatest problem facing creative American artists in any field is the public's insistence that they be typed.

"People tend to want to identify you with one thing, perhaps because that helps them to feel they can understand you," he remarked. "That's all right if you can only do one thing. But I like to do a number of different things."

"I don't like to do just one thing at a time either. Before I start on a film, I prepare about 10 to 12 big canvases so I'll have something to come back to. And while I'm doing the film, or appearing in a play, before I fall asleep at night I make dozens and dozens of preliminary drawings for my paintings."

Mostel won three Tony awards in a row for his appearances in "Rhinoceros," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," and "Fiddler on the Roof." But flattering as hit productions are to his ego, he dislikes long runs.

Mary Agnes Ruff, 34, of Route 2, Ashville, accused of fatally shooting her husband, was removed from Pickaway County Jail and placed in Berger Hospital for medical treatment and examination.

Five Pickaway County schools closed, one of them for the second time in two weeks, due to increased absences because of illness.

Pickaway County voters overwhelmingly supported Berger Hospital levy at a special election.

Dr. Robert Hedges of 836 N. Court St. announced his intent to seek nomination for Mayor of Circleville, assuming a city municipal court would be formed.

Williamsport and New Holland tied for the county basketball league title. Both teams had eight wins in ten league games for the season.

The Boyd Hines jewelry store in Ashville was broken into and $1,500 worth of jewelry taken.

Rent controls went into effect in five townships of Pickaway County. All landlords were required to register all dwellings in the townships of Circleville, Harrison, Madison, Walnut and Washington.

Rothman's Store at Franklin and Pickaway Sts. was issued a building permit for a $4,000 addition to the existing building.

The "Pirates" of Pickaway Twp. High School were crowned champions of the 1953 county basketball tournament when they defeated Williamsport in a thrilling 48-47 victory. Members of the winning team were Pontius, Rhoades, Evans, Anderson, Minshall and Carroll.

Richard Millar Smith of Walnut Twp. High School finished first among the seniors from Circleville and Pickaway County high schools in the states annual scholarship exams.

Doris Day Set for TV

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The next film star to make the leap into television is sunny Doris Day, queen of the pseudo-sex comedies.

For a decade Miss Day has starred in handsomely produced films in which she was the proposed victim of the bad intentions of such screen lovers as Cary Grant, Rock Hudson, James Garner, Rod Taylor and Richard Harris. She is currently making another, "With Six You Get Egg Roll," with Brian Keith as the predator.

The film is the first to be made in Hollywood by the new feature film division of the Columbia Broadcasting System. Miss Day is also contracted to CBS for a television series, but there is no connection between the two deals, according to Gordon Stulberg, the man in charge of the CBS features.

"The two contracts are entirely separate," assured the actress. "But I really don't know much about them. Marty takes care of all that." She referred to her husband, Marty Melcher, who goes along on all her film assignments as co-producer. On the current movie he is full producer.

Miss Day was somewhat vague about her television plans.

"I don't really know when the show will go on the air," she said. "They're working on a format now, and I suppose I'll have some children in it."

"I do know what the work schedule will be, and it suits me fine. I'll rehearse a day, then shoot for three days. Then I'll have three days off. I'm not worried about the hard work in television. I enjoy working, and those three days off will be heavenly. On this picture I will have a total of one day without working."

The plot of "With Six You Get Egg Roll" might cause some alarm among Doris Day fans. She and Keith play partnerless parents who contemplate a merger of their families. But before they agree to a wedding, they go away for a weekend together. This is a Doris Day picture.

"Everything goes wrong," she explained. "They go out on a picnic and it rains. It rains the whole weekend."

But surely they spend some time together indoors.

"Yes, but that takes place behind locked doors," she added firmly. "What they do is their own business, and nobody else's. You're never going to see them in bed together, if that's what you mean."

Realities of Brutal War Hit Saigon

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bonanza," the NBC Western that gallops along smartly at the head of the television pack, is a series that doesn't cause much excitement morning-after talk, but the folks keep tuning it in, year after year.

The most recent episode was a good example of the series' shrewd style. There was the important emphasis on a story that could be played as a period costume drama or a contemporary story tale with nothing more than a few changes of sets and references. There was a bit of gun-slinging, some fist-waving—all familiar background of the legendary Wild West. And there was that nice Cartwright family, always on the side of law, order, country and motherhood.

The work of the series is spread among the three stars of the show. Sunday night's episode belonged to Lorne Greene, the white-haired daddy of the clan.

The difficulty was salt. All the ranchers were losing their stock because the cattle had no salt. And they had no salt because the salt dealer had died and his niece, a city girl with funny ideas about making money, planned to hold out for the highest bidder.

Then a nasty rancher wanted to pay an enormous price for all the salt. But at the last minute, good Ben Cartwright outbid him on behalf of all the ranchers. Then followed the inevitable shoot-out in which the nasty rancher was, of course, killed. And so was the man the city girl loved.

The lesson in all this was about greed and a demonstration that money doesn't necessarily bring happiness or love.

It is a soothing show to watch. It is predictable and right all ways prevails. The most that ever happens to the Cartwrights is that they are occasionally winged by a bullet.

ABC will start its intensive coverage, much of it live, of the Winter Olympic Games with the opening ceremonies at 8:45 A.M. EST Tuesday. The program will come from Grenoble, France, by satellite. The network is going all-out, using 40 cameras, helicopters and a team of some 300 persons to cover the skating and skiing.

It plans to devote some 27 hours to the games—much more than it expects to offer during its coverage of U.S. political conventions next August.

CBS and ABC have announced dates for more drama specials. Michael Gazzo's 1955 Broadway hit, "A Hatful of Rain," will be a two-hour ABC program on March 3. It will star Sandy Dennis, Peter Falk and Herschel Bernardi.

Tad Mosel's "Secrets," an original drama, will be the fourth "CBS Playhouse" production of the season, to be broadcast on May 15. The third in the series, Robert Crean's "My Father and My Mother," comes along on Feb. 13.

How Carolina Lady Relieved Painful, Itching Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain in Most Cases
Mrs. C. McKinney of Rutherfordton, N.C. says: "Preparation H relieved my pain and stopped my itching. I can now work and be comfortable. I've told lots of friends who've had the same results."
(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

This was the face of Saigon Sunday afternoon:

A Vietnamese doctor shrugged his shoulders beside the bed of a dying 3-year-old boy lying sightless, his body a raw scar from stomach to forehead. The flamethrower that had scorched him killed his mother and father.

A nervous policeman raised his rifle at a dozen Vietnamese families that wandered to the park in front of the National Assembly building in the center of the city.

The weary men and women picked up their babies and bundles and struggled up the street toward the central market, homeless nomads in a city paralyzed by the war.

On the northwestern outskirts of the city, bulldozers gouged out a mass grave for Viet Cong soldiers who died in the assault on the capital. They were to be buried anonymously in a cemetery that holds the remains of French Legionnaires and the Vietnamese who fought beside them in the 1946-54 war.

Other gravediggers were at work in the National Cemetery, preparing for the elaborate official funeral of a Vietnamese colonel beheaded by the Viet Cong. Six other graves were being dug alongside for his wife and five children, machine-gunned beside him.

On the once fashionable boulevard yards in then center of town—rats scurried in man-high piles of garbage outside American officers' clubs.

A Vietnamese housewife hurried through police checkpoints during the brief lifting of the curfew, seeking food to replenish her larder. Food is available only on the black market and at

13-Year-Old Held In Fatal Shooting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year-old boy was in custody Sunday for investigation in the fatal shooting of Richard Harrison, 33, Saturday night.

Officers said the boy, Calvin Simmons, shot Harrison with a .22 caliber rifle after Harrison made advances toward the boy's sister at their home. Police said Harrison drew a knife on the boy.

Mansfield Youth Killed in Colorado

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A Mansfield, Ohio, youth, David Zimmerman, 19, was fatally injured in an auto accident on the grounds of the U.S. Air Force Academy Sunday.

Zimmerman was attending the academy's prep school as a cadet candidate for the main academy. He died about seven hours after the accident.

three times normal prices.

Wounded civilians lie at least two in a bed at all hospitals. At Cho Ray, the biggest hospital in Vietnam, an old man wounded in both legs and the chest sprawls on the tile flooring because all the beds are full.

On a bed next to him are two badly burned men. In the children's ward, a young girl, her head swathed in bloody bandages, nestles on the bosom of her mother, who moans with similar wounds.

The homeless wander the city seeking shelter and food. The fearful crowd the grounds of hospitals, churches and pagodas.

Some already are trying to rebuild on the ruins. A shopkeeper who had lost everything was one of the few people in a block-long scene of destruction. He was trying to flatten the twisted tin roof on his house and replace it on the charred walls. The destruction that surrounded him was as total as in Berlin in 1945.

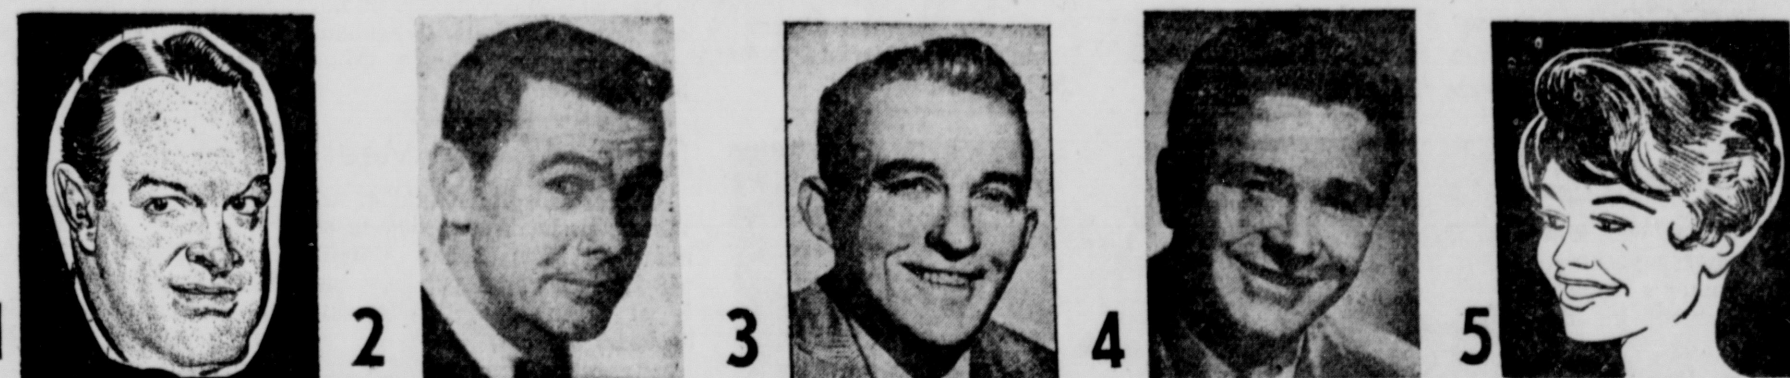

Thousands of people in the city are now homeless. Many had fled the fighting in the country, and now they have nowhere else to run. The war has caught up with Saigon.

Fulbright Faces Political Trouble

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who hasn't had a serious election challenge since Arkansas sent him to the Senate 24 years ago, is threatened by a Marine hawk who contends Fulbright's opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam is delaying the day of victory.

Fulbright's response: Plead his case to the voters and field their roughest questions.

The Senate's No. 1 dove isn't retreating from his criticism of President Johnson's Vietnam policy; in fact, he's telling his homefolk he doubts the administration now will accept anything less than victory in the war.

Fulbright's possible opponent in the August Democratic primary is former Gov. Sid McMath, a major general in the Marine Corps reserve who has two Marine officer sons—one in Vietnam.

McMath, now a Little Rock lawyer, is making an average of three speeches a week across the state, where hawkish sentiment is strong, contending Fulbright's criticism "is holding up victory" by receiving "undue attention."

Many observers see evidence that Fulbright is gaining strength through an increasing number of personal appearances. In each, he sets out his views briefly then invites questions from the audience.

His constituents respond with alacrity. They probe his stand on Vietnam; they prod him about his role in steering the Gulf of Tonkin resolution through the Senate; they worriedly inquire about the North Korean seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo, and they bluntly ask the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee if his dissent is indeed prolonging the Vietnam war.

"I don't think it has any significance at all in keeping Ho Chi Minh from the negotiation table," Fulbright told one such gathering in Pine Bluff.

"Are you willing to accept the infallibility of one leader?" he demanded.

Fulbright Faces Political Trouble

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, who hasn't had a serious election challenge since Arkansas sent him to the Senate 24 years ago, is threatened by a Marine hawk who contends Fulbright's opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam is delaying the day of victory.

Fulbright's response: Plead his case to the voters and field their roughest questions.

The Senate's No. 1 dove isn't retreating from his criticism of President Johnson's Vietnam policy; in fact, he's telling his homefolk he doubts the administration now will accept anything less than victory in the war.

Fulbright's possible opponent in the August Democratic primary is former Gov. Sid McMath, a major general in the Marine Corps reserve who has two Marine officer sons—one in Vietnam.

McMath, now a Little Rock lawyer, is making an average of three speeches a week across the state, where hawkish sentiment is strong, contending Fulbright's criticism "is holding up victory" by receiving "undue attention."

Many observers see evidence that Fulbright is gaining strength through an increasing number of personal appearances. In each, he sets out his views briefly then invites questions from the audience.

His constituents respond with alacrity. They probe his stand on Vietnam; they prod him about his role in steering the Gulf of Tonkin resolution through the Senate; they worriedly inquire about the North Korean seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo, and they bluntly ask the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee if his dissent is indeed prolonging the Vietnam war.

"I don't think it has any significance at all in keeping Ho Chi Minh from the negotiation table," Fulbright told one such gathering in Pine Bluff.

"Are you willing to accept the infallibility of one leader?" he demanded.

Braves Beat Teays Valley, 63-60

Victory Decided In 2 Overtimes

Logan Elm edged Teays Valley, 63-60, Saturday night in a thrilling double overtime game played before a near capacity crowd in the Viking gymnasium.

Royce Woolever, who was the game's leading scorer, Mike Helwag and Danny Fausnaugh provided the last minute heroics for the Braves. The win was the second for Logan Elm over a Teays Valley cage team.

Woolever scored 26 points and pulled down 13 rebounds. His bucket from the right side of the foul lane with 23 seconds to go in the regulation four quarters deadlocked the score at 55-55.

In the first overtime, Teays Valley scored on two foul shots. With a scant two seconds to go, Mike Helwag canned a 25 foot set shot to deadlock the score again.

IN the second over time, Teays Valley scored first, but Woolever deadlocked the game at 59-59.

Fausnaugh scored the bucket that gave the Braves a 61-59 lead with 1:12 to go in the second overtime.

Woolever then went high in the air to snatch a big rebound off the Teays Valley boards, flipped the ball to Fausnaugh who raced down the floor to give the Braves a four point lead with 32 seconds to go.

Woolever had another big rebound off the Teays Valley basket on a missed foul shot by Walt Newman but the Vikings broke up a fast break attempt.

The game was close all the way. Logan Elm's biggest lead was the four point spread 32 seconds before the final buzzer.

Teays Valley led by six a couple of times in the second period, but never by more.

IN the first quarter, the score was tied four times, and the lead changed hands eight times. At the end of those initial eight minutes of play, the Vikings held a 16-15 edge.

Teays Valley led 30-24 and 32-26 twice in the final three minutes of the second quarter for the biggest margins of the game. At halftime, the score was 32-28 with Teays Valley on top.

The Braves virtually traded baskets with the Vikings in the third period, although gaining two points during the period to make the score 43-41 at the beginning of the fourth quarter.

Dennis Karshner finally tied the score with 3:52 showing on the clock at 49-49. Fausnaugh, on a steal, gave Logan Elm their first lead since the first quarter, 51-49.

But Bruce Reese tied the score at 51-all with 2:40 showing on the clock. Woolever put the Braves ahead again with 2:12 to go, Dale Lambert notched the bucket that tied the score again and Reese scored from deep in the corner to give Teays Valley to two point lead with 55 seconds to go in the game.

With 23 seconds, Woolever sank the bucket that threw the game into overtime.

LOGAN Elm sank 29 of 58 shots from the field for a 51.8 per cent field goal average, the big difference in the game.

At the foul line, Logan Elm only made five of 13 chances, a 38 per cent shooting average. Logan Elm had 34 rebounds in the game. The Braves committed 22 turnovers in the game, a factor that enabled the Vikings to hold the lead most of the time.

Teays Valley's shooting from the field was not as sharp as usual. The Vikings fired at the bucket 71 times, making 24 for a 34 per cent average. At the foul line, they made 12 of 18, a 67 per cent average.

The Vikings stayed right with Logan Elm on the boards, hauling down 33 rebounds, Teays Valley only made seven turnovers.

Woolever took 19 shots in the game, making 12. He added two at the foul line for his total.

Dennis Karshner and Danny Fausnaugh both scored 12 points. Karshner made five of seven shots from the field and scored two at the charity stripe. Fausnaugh canned six of 11 field goal tries for his total.

EDDIE Young sprained his ankle early in the game but scored six points on three field goals before his injury. The big senior forward may be lost to the Logan Elm cage team until tournament time because of the sprain which appeared to be very severe on the preliminary examination.

Mike Helwag scored four points and Dale Jenne three to round out the scoring for the Braves.

Pacing the balanced Teays Valley attack was Mike Lombardo with seven field goals and two foul shots for a 16 point effort. He had 12 rebounds for Teays Valley.

Walt Newman scored 14 on five buckets from the field and four at the foul line. Bruce Reese notched five field goals and two foul shots for 12 points in a starting role.

Dale Lambert and Dan Southers notched seven markers each and Dick Barr scored four.

Logan Elm has a 8-6 record for the year while Teays Valley's record now stands at 7-7.

IN Friday action, the Braves host Southeastern of Ross County and on Saturday close out the Scioto Valley Conference play with a home game against visiting Unioto.

Feb. 13, they travel to Madison South for the final game of the regular season.

Teays Valley has a pair of road games this weekend, traveling to Reynoldsburg in Metro League action Friday and to Waverly Saturday.

By ED SCHUYLER JR
Things didn't go well for horse owners at Santa Anita, but they took a favorable turn for Herbert Allen at Hialeah.

Not only didn't they go well at the West Coast track, they didn't go at all as a boycott of the entry box forced a cancellation of Saturday's races including the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes.

Allen's favorable turn occurred when his 4-year-old colt, Favorable Turn, a 43-1 shot, scored in the $65,900 Seminole Handicap, a major stepping stone for the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Feb. 17.

I other features Saturday, First and Finest, $23.40, won the $27,900, 1 1-16-mile City of Baltimore Handicap at Pimlico; Junior Achiever, $7, took the $12,720 Thelma Stakes over six furlongs at the New Orleans Fair Grounds and Sky Dive won the five-furlong Providence Handicap at Narragansett Park.

Pioneers Corral Mustangs

By HERB AMEY
Zane Trace's hustling Pioneers, led by Garry Kuhn's 16 second half points, pulled away from a sticky Westfall cage team and won, 77-62, Saturday on the Mustangs' floor.

The Pioneers quickly built up a four point lead in the opening minutes. Westfall hung on and tied it up but Zane Trace took the lead again. They maintained the edge and were ahead after the first quarter, 15-14.

Denny Fletcher put Westfall on top for the first time when he took the second quarter tip and scored. The Pioneers marked four quick points but the Mustangs wiped it out and the score was tied, 19-19, with 5:55 on the clock.

With three and a half minutes left in the period Westfall moved into a full court press. The Mustangs were down three at that point but fought back to take a 29-28 edge. Tony Lightle's field goal after Kuhn's foul toss gave Westfall its biggest spread, 31-29. Kuhn tossed in another free throw and a field goal before the buzzer to give Zane Trace a 32-31 halftime lead.

THE scrappy Pioneers showed control on the boards during the first half, outbounding Westfall 19-14. They continued their dominance in the third period when they jumped into a 54-57 lead. In the fourth period the winners outscored Westfall, 23-15.

The Pioneers totaled 45 rebounds in the tilt, compared with 32 for Westfall. At the start of the third quarter Zane Trace went into a pressure defense, causing nine Westfall turnovers in the half. For the game the Mustangs committed 18 bobbles, while Zane Trace had 15.

Kuhn was the game's leading scorer, swishing nine field goals in 15 shots and adding eight of 12 foul shots. Kuhn, a 5-10 senior guard, had four points in the first period, six in the second, eight in the third and eight in the fourth.

Three other Pioneers scored in double figures. Jeff Reisinger, 6-3 Pioneer center, tapped in six of 16 field goals. The sophomore hit on five of eight charity tosses.

Chip Maxwell notched 12 points on six field goals. Dan Ratcliffe tossed in five two-point field goals.

Hamman was Westfall's top scorer. He shot 18 times, connecting on six and adding five of five free tosses. Gene Carfrey came off the bench and played most of the game, tallying 13 points on four field goals and five free throws.

TONY Lightle and Charlie Palmer each had 10 markers for the Mustangs.

Westfall took 70 shots from the floor, hitting on 23. From the foul line the Mustangs sank 16 of their 22 shots.

Zane Trace had 72 field goal attempts and converted 31. They visited the charity stripe 26 times, walking away with 15 one-pointers.

ZANE Trace reserves won the preliminary tilt, 46-41.

Braves Beat Teays Valley, 63-60

Victory Decided In 2 Overtimes

Logan Elm edged Teays Valley, 63-60, Saturday night in a thrilling double overtime game played before a near capacity crowd in the Viking gymnasium.

Royce Woolever, who was the game's leading scorer, Mike Helwegen and Danny Fausnaugh provided the last minute heroics for the Braves. The win was the second for Logan Elm over a Teays Valley cage team.

Woolever scored 26 points and pulled down 13 rebounds. His bucket from the right side of the foul lane with 23 seconds to go in the regulation four quarters deadlocked the score at 55-55.

In the first overtime, Teays Valley scored on two foul shots. With a scant two seconds to go, Mike Helwegen canned a 25 foot set shot to deadlock the score again.

IN the second over time, Teays Valley scored first, but Woolever deadlocked the game at 59-59.

Fausnaugh scored the bucket that gave the Braves a 61-59 lead with 1:12 to go in the second overtime.

Woolever then went high in the air to snatch a big rebound off the Teays Valley boards, flipped the ball to Fausnaugh who raced down the floor to give the Braves a four point lead with 32 seconds to go.

Woolever had another big rebound off the Teays Valley basket on a missed foul shot by Walt Newman but the Vikings broke up a fast break attempt.

The game was close all the way. Logan Elm's biggest lead was the four point spread 32 seconds before the final buzzer.

Teays Valley led by six a couple of times in the second period, but never by more.

IN the first quarter, the score was tied four times, and the lead changed hands eight times. At the end of those initial eight minutes of play, the Vikings held a 16-15 edge.

Teays Valley led 30-24 and 32-26 twice in the final three minutes of the second quarter for the biggest margins of the game. At halftime, the score was 32-28 with Teays Valley on top.

The Braves virtually traded baskets with the Vikings in the third period, although gaining two points during the period to make the score 43-41 at the beginning of the fourth quarter.

Dennis Karshner finally tied the score with 3:52 showing on the clock at 49-49. Fausnaugh, on a steal, gave Logan Elm their first lead since the first quarter, 51-49.

But Bruce Reese tied the score at 51-all with 2:40 showing on the clock. Woolever put the Braves ahead again with 2:12 to go, Dale Lambert notched the bucket that tied the score again and Reese scored from deep in the corner to give Teays Valley to two point lead with 55 seconds to go in the game.

Pioneers Corral Mustangs

By HERB AMEY

Zane Trace's hustling Pioneers, led by Garry Kuhn's 16 second half points, pulled away from a sticky Westfall cage team and won, 77-62, Saturday on the Mustangs' floor.

The Pioneers quickly built up a four point lead in the opening minutes. Westfall hung on and tied it up but Zane Trace took the lead again. They maintained the edge and were ahead after the first quarter, 15-14.

Denny Fletcher put Westfall on top for the first time when he took the second quarter tip and scored. The Pioneers marked four quick points but the Mustangs wiped it out and the score was tied, 19-19, with 5:55 on the clock.

With three and a half minutes left in the period Westfall moved into a full court press. The Mustangs were down three at that point but fought back to take a 29-28 edge. Tony Lightie's field goal after Kuhn's foul toss gave Westfall its biggest spread, 31-29. Kuhn tossed in another free throw and a field goal before the buzzer to give Zane Trace a 32-31 halftime lead.

THE scrappy Pioneers showed control on the boards during the first half, outrebounding Westfall 19-14. They continued their dominance in the third period when they jumped into a 54-57 lead. In the fourth period the winners outscored Westfall, 23-15.

The Pioneers totaled 45 rebounds in the tilt, compared with 32 for Westfall. At the start of the third quarter Zane Trace went into a pressure defense, causing nine Westfall turnovers in the half. For the game the Mustangs committed 18 bobbles, while Zane Trace had 15.

Kuhn was the game's leading scorer, swishing nine field goals in 15 shots and adding eight of 12 foul shots. Kuhn, a 5-10 senior guard, had four points in the first period, six in the second, eight in the third and eight in the fourth.

Three other Pioneers scored in double figures. Jeff Reisinger, 6-3 Pioneer center, tapped in six of 16 field goals. The sophomore hit on five of eight charity tosses.

Chip Maxwell notched 12 points on six field goals. Dan Ratcliffe tossed in five two point field goals.

Hamman was Westfall's top scorer. He shot 18 times, connecting on six and adding five of five free tosses. Gene Carfrey came off the bench and played most of the game, tallying 13 points on four field goals and five free throws.

TONY Lightie and Charlie Palmer each had 10 markers for the Mustangs.

Westfall took 70 shots from the floor, hitting on 23. From the foul line the Mustangs sank 16 of their 22 shots.

Zane Trace had 72 field goal attempts and converted 31. They visited the charity stripe 26 times, walking away with 15 one-pointers.

ZANE Trace reserves won the preliminary tilt, 46-41.

Favorable Turn Wins

By ED SCHUYLER JR

Things didn't go well for horse owners at Santa Anita, but they took a favorable turn for Herbert Allen at Hialeah.

Not only didn't they go well at the West Coast track, they didn't go at all as a boycott of the entry box forced a cancellation of Saturday's races including the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes.

Allen's favorable turn occurred when his 4-year-old colt, Favorable Turn, a 43-1 shot, scored in the $65,900 Seminole Handicap, a major stepping stone for the $100,000-added Widener Handicap at Hialeah Feb. 17.

I other features Saturday, First and Finest, $23.40, won the $27,900, 1 1/16-mile City of Baltimore Handicap at Pimlico; Junior Achiever, $7, took the $12,720 Thelma Stakes over six furlongs at the New Orleans Fair Grounds and Sky Dive won the five-furlong Providence Handicap at Narragansett Park.

SNIPER HUNT IN SAIGON—With small arms fire peppering parts of Saigon, capital of South Vietnam, following a large scale Viet Cong attack on the city, a big tank rumbles along a street in a search for snipers. (Radiophoto)

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara, outgoing Secretary of Defense, says the decision to invade Cuba at the Bay of Pigs was a "serious error" and is "very much on my conscience."

McNamara said that when President Kennedy took public responsibility for the failure of the 1961 invasion, "he didn't say what he might have said—that every single one of his advisers, me included, recommended it." That unanimous recommendation, McNamara said, "does not change the fact that I was wrong."

McNamara spoke of the unanimous nature of the agreement in an Associated Press interview, published Sunday, and in a television-radio interview on NBC's "Meet the Press."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The best hope for the big cities lies in the development of smaller communities throughout the nation, the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders has been told.

It is necessary, said Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John A. Baker, to reverse the flow of people from the countryside to the cities to ease the "general malaise" affecting the "more than 70 per cent of Americans who now live on only 1.2 per cent of the total land area of the nation."

He proposed development of some 300 town-country communities as "attractive alternatives to mass urban agglomeration" and to "help save the nation."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says some 27 national and local groups representing thousands of American women have responded to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's appeal to citizens to help fight crime in the streets.

One of the largest of these is the 11-million-member General Federation of Women's Clubs whose president, Mrs. E. D. Pearce of Miami, Fla., applauded Mrs. Johnson's "intention to emphasize individual and community responsibility in the fight against crime."

St. Paris GI Is Murdered; Seek Slayer

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP)—The victim of a nude-body murder has been identified, but much mystery still remains.

Roger A. Gaddis, 20, a soldier stationed at Ft. Belvoir, Va., was identified Sunday as the man whose nude body was found Jan. 26 off a lonely, snow-covered lane in Addison Township.

Identification was made by his widow, Mary, of St. Paris, Ohio, and Army fingerprint records.

Mrs. Gaddis said Gaddis left St. Paris Jan. 24 to hitchhike to Ft. Belvoir.

Still a mystery were: How was he killed, and what became of his clothes and any other possessions.

Coroner Robert Halverson said Gaddis was murdered, but he declined to reveal the cause of death even though an autopsy was performed.

Halverson said the body had marks resembling rope burns on the throat and wrists.

The heaviest fighting was raging near the International Control Commission compound, about four blocks from the central market place. Thousands of civilians were evacuated from the area.

Upwards of 500 Viet Cong troops were believed still in Saigon and there were reports of "second wave" enemy battalions outside the capital, where fighting began Wednesday. The government's curfew included orders for soldiers to shoot anyone on the streets after 7 p.m.

Solons Try To Pry Bond Issue from Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators try today to remove a roadblock to passage of an $850 million bond issue proposal Gov. James A. Rhodes wants on the May 7 primary ballot.

The proposal stalled in a Senate finance subcommittee Thursday before the legislature adjourned for the weekend. The three-member subcommittee planned to meet again today after the Senate's 4 p.m. floor session.

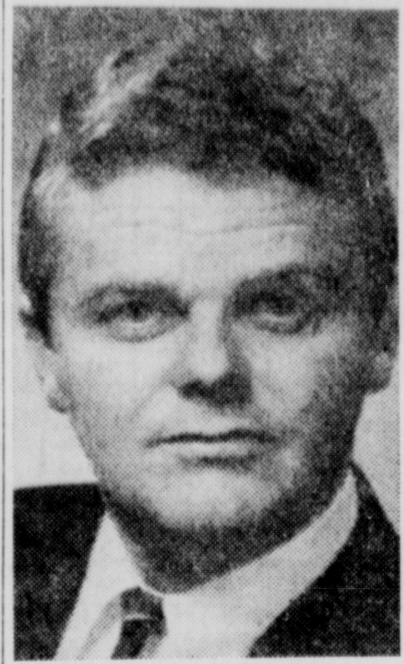

Representatives return at 8 p.m. tonight.

Sens. Robert E. Stockdale R-31 Portage and Oliver Ocasek D-27 Summit balked Thursday at language in the resolution they said would divert earmarked highway funds to other purposes—namely automotive research at a proposed transportation research center near Marysville.

Ocasek asserted the word "highway" was deleted by the GOP administration, broadening the scope of research at the center which is down for $30 million of the $550 million proposed for highways in the bond issue package.

Bonds would be retired with highway tax revenues which the constitution says must go for highway purposes. "They'd better wake up downstairs," Ocasek said, referring to the first-floor governor's office.

Ransom Named To Exec Post

ROBERT D. RANSOM

Robert D. Ransom, a former Circleville resident, has been named to the newly created position of executive operations administrator with Deffet Companies of Columbus.

Ransom, who taught speech and drama at Circleville High School, held a position in employment management with the DuPont Co., prior to directing the efforts of The Multicon Management Co. in Dayton, where he was general manager of Multicon's 900 apartment units.

The announcement was made today by George Deffet, president of the firm. In making the announcement Deffet said, "The appointment of Ransom is to signify our intention of becoming recognized as a regional contender in the commercial apartment building management field."

At the same time Deffet announced plans for the construction of a new $225,000 office building on Route 33 which will serve as the firm's executive headquarters housing accounting, planning, land acquisition, financing, estimating, construction and management.

Deny Charge Drug Really Sea Water

MILAN, Italy (AP) — An international drug dealer has denied U.S. charges that a product he sold to South Vietnam to treat nausea and skin eruptions was plain sea water.

Dealer Clement Gubbay told a news conference the substance is a "true and proper medicine" used as a solvent for antibiotics and to correct saline imbalances in the body.

Daniel Cohen of the U.S. Agency for International Development told a U.S. Senate subcommittee his agency had underwritten the purchase of Gubbay's product for $24,000 for Vietnamese civilian use. He said Gubbay had been suspended from AID dealings and that the agency had taken steps to avoid any more such transactions.

Gubbay said the product, called bioceate, is based on sea water procured many miles from shore with "special techniques and placed, successively, under numerous laboratory operations according to the preparation method of the Brunet Co." of France.

would allow judges of multi-member courts, county commissioners, and state senators to receive pay increases during terms instead of after being re-elected.

Pay increases voted by the legislature do not take effect until the following term for the office involved. But many terms are staggered so that some judges and officials get the increase two years before others holding the same office.

The anti-riot bill was a result of testimony the House Judiciary Committee heard at meetings with local law enforcement officials in Cincinnati, Toledo, Columbus and Cleveland.

Its provisions give additional emergency powers to mayors and sheriffs—including authority to ban the sale of firearms and declare curfews—make disorderly conduct against the state law for the first time, define rioting in the code and set stiff penalties for first-degree rioting and second-degree rioting, among other things.

Senators vote today on an emergency measure adding a fifth judge to the 10th District appeals court in Columbus. Approval would clear the way for candidates to file before a Feb. 7 deadline.

One candidate will be House Majority Floor Leader Robert E. Holmes R-58 Columbus, who announced earlier he would seek the bench instead of running for re-election to the House.

BUICK'S New Opel Kadet

OPEL is not a 'Johnny come lately' in Automobile production. They started in 1862 with the production of Sewing Machines and up to the year 1911 when a fire destroyed the Factory they had built 1,000,000. The largest number ever built by a manufacturer.

In 1886 and up to the year 1927 they built and sold 2,600,000 Bicycles. They discontinued production after becoming the World's largest, to devote their entire efforts to the automobile.

In 1898 they started in the production of Automobiles. In 1907 they received the Emperor's award for their racing Cars. They had entered their cars in many races and up to the year 1926, when they discontinued racing, they had won 288 first prizes. By 1909 the name of Opel cars for Dependability had gotten around. Gentlemen and Princes both eagerly acquired Opels.

By 1925 there were 51 makes of autos made in Germany but this dropped to 13 in 1936 and Opel sold 40% of all cars. Opels are sold in every Country in the World and by 1940 their sales were 1,000,000.

During the War 47% of their plant was destroyed and was not completely rebuilt until 1953 when they had 420 acres of plant. The conveyor and assembly lines were about 100 miles as compared with the 148 feet of 30 years before.

General Motors has taken over the Opel Plant and are now building cars for the Buick Motor Division. All the government safety requirements you will find on Opel as on any other GM Car. The Opel has a 24,000 mile or 24 month guarantee and has over 1600 Buick Dealers to back it up. The last figure available to me was in 1962 when they had built over 3,000,000 cars. I assume that by now this figure has doubled.

I repeat Opel is not a 'Johnny come lately car' and you should compare it before you decide on any import car. If for no other reason the guarantee and the service should be of interest to you.

Vietnamese women out strolling and food vendors resuming business, but Viet Cong troops were attacking government forces in the city today. Some government troops set up machine guns on roof tops and fired up and down alleys and into buildings.

The heaviest fighting was raging near the International Control Commission compound, about four blocks from the central market place. Thousands of civilians were evacuated from the area.

Upwards of 500 Viet Cong troops were believed still in Saigon and there were reports of "second wave" enemy battalions outside the capital, where fighting began Wednesday. The government's curfew included orders for soldiers to shoot anyone on the streets after 7 p.m.

Solons Try To Pry Bond Issue from Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State senators try today to remove a roadblock to passage of an $850 million bond issue proposal Gov. James A. Rhodes wants on the May 7 primary ballot.

The proposal stalled in a Senate finance subcommittee Thursday before the legislature adjourned for the weekend. The three-member subcommittee planned to meet again today after the Senate's 4 p.m. floor session.

Representatives return at 8 p.m. tonight.

Sens. Robert E. Stockdale R-31 Portage and Oliver Ocasek D-27 Summit balked Thursday at language in the resolution they said would divert earmarked highway funds to other purposes—namely automotive research at a proposed transportation research center near Marysville.

Ocasek asserted the word "highway" was deleted by the GOP administration, broadening the scope of research at the center which is down for $30 million of the $550 million proposed for highways in the bond issue package.

Bonds would be retired with highway tax revenues which the constitution says must go for highway purposes. "They'd better wake up downstairs," Ocasek said, referring to the first-floor governor's office.

The bond issue is one of several major issues facing the lawmakers starting the fourth week of their 1968 session.

Bills to equalize the pay of judges, county officials, and legislators and to control rioting are up for a vote Tuesday in the House.

The pay measure, a constitutional resolution which would go before voters in November,

Deny Charge Drug Really Sea Water

MILAN, Italy (AP) — An international drug dealer has denied U.S. charges that a product he sold to South Vietnam to treat nausea and skin eruptions was plain sea water.

Dealer Clement Gubbay told a news conference the substance is a "true and proper medicine" used as a solvent for antibiotics and to correct saline imbalances in the body.

Daniel Cohen of the U.S. Agency for International Development told a U.S. Senate subcommittee his agency had underwritten the purchase of Gubbay's product for $24,000 for Vietnamese civilian use. He said Gubbay had been suspended from AID dealings and that the agency had taken steps to avoid any more such transactions.

Gubbay said the product, called bioceane, is based on sea water procured many miles from shore with "special techniques and placed, successively, under numerous laboratory operations according to the preparation method of the Brunet Co." of France.

BUICK'S New Opel Kadet

The Mini-Brute

OPEL is not a 'Johnny come lately' in Automobile production. They started in 1862 with the production of Sewing Machines and up to the year 1911 when a fire destroyed the Factory they had built 1,000,000. The largest number ever built by a manufacturer.

In 1886 and up to the year 1927 they built and sold 2,600,000 Bicycles. They discontinued production after becoming the World's largest, to devote their entire efforts to the automobile.

In 1898 they started in the production of Automobiles. In 1907 they received the Emperor's award for their racing cars. They had entered their cars in many races and up to the year 1926, when they discontinued racing, they had won 288 first prizes. By 1909 the name of Opel cars for Dependability had gotten around. Gentlemen and Princes both eagerly acquired Opels.

By 1925 there were 51 makes of autos made in Germany but this dropped to 13 in 1936 and Opel sold 40% of all cars. Opels are sold in every Country in the World and by 1940 their sales were 1,000,000.

During the War 47% of their plant was destroyed and was not completely rebuilt until 1953 when they had 420 acres of plant. The conveyor and assembly lines were about 100 miles as compared with the 148 feet of 30 years before.

General Motors has taken over the Opel Plant and are now building cars for the Buick Motor Division. All the government safety requirements you will find on Opel as on any other GM Car. The Opel has a 24,000 mile or 24 month guarantee and has over 1600 Buick Dealers to back it up. The last figure available to me was in 1962 when they had built over 3,000,000 cars. I assume that by now this figure has doubled.

I repeat Opel is not a 'Johnny come lately car' and you should compare it before you decide on any import car. If for no other reason the guarantee and the service should be of interest to you.
